RPE005 – Privacy of Information Employees and Participants

Purpose

This policy sets out the way Echo Australia Inc. (echo) handles personal information including collection, storage, access alterations and destruction of records.

Scope

This policy applies to all employees and echo as a whole.

Definition

Personal information means:

- Records or information held by echo to provide a service or employment; and
- Records or information held by echo for the purpose of conducting those services.

Obligations

This policy sets out how we comply with our obligations under the Privacy Act 1988 and the Australian Privacy Principles which are set out in a Schedule to that Act. The Australia Privacy Principles (APPs) regulate how echo, as an entity, must collect, use, disclose and store personal information. The APP's also give individuals the right to access and correct their information in certain circumstances.

Why do we collect information about you?

We collect information to meet echo's business obligations. We also collect information for purposes, such as processing Freedom of Information (FOI) requests, conducting data matching, providing services in a culturally appropriate way and conducting statistical analysis to improve echo service delivery.

Collection

- 1. Personal information will be collected by echo for inclusion in a record (or in a generally available publication) where:
 - the information is collected for a purpose that is lawful and directly related to a function or activity of echo.
 - the collection of the information is necessary for and directly related to that purpose.
- 2. echo will only collect personal information by fair and lawful means and not in an unreasonable intrusive manner.

When Collecting Information:

Within reason echo shall take such steps to ensure that:

- the information collected is relevant to the purpose and is up to date and complete.
- the collection of the information does not intrude to an unreasonable extent upon the personal affairs of the individual concerned.

Before information is collected, or if that is not practical, as soon after the information is collected, echo will inform the concerned individual of:

- The fact that the information is being collected.
- The purpose for which the information is being collected.
- If the collection of the information is authorised or required by law.
- Any individual, organisation, or agency to which it is echo's usual practice to disclose the collected personal information, as applicable and known to echo.
- Any individual, organisation, or agency to whom the first-mentioned individual, organisation or agency typically shares that information.

Use of Personal Information

Your personal information will only be used for the purpose it was originally collected unless another use is permitted by law or it falls under the exceptions outlined in the Australian Privacy Principles.

echo will ensure, to the best of its ability, that the information you provide to us remains private and is only used for the purposes you agreed to.

RPE005 – Privacy of Information Employees and Participants

echo will not disclose your personal information to anyone, including to other Government agencies organisations or third parties unless:

- You have consented.
- The disclosure is required or authorised by law.
- The disclosure is otherwise permitted by the Australian Privacy Principles.

When, why and to whom your personal information may be disclosed depends on the services to which the information related and the contract under which we are delivering those services to you.

Disclosure of Personal Information

echo will not reveal, disclose, sell, distribute, rent, license, share or pass your personal information on to a third party, other than those that echo have a binding agreement with, ensuring that the third party affords your personal information the similar levels of protection as echo.

Furthermore, we may use and disclose your Personal Information for another purpose if:

- You would reasonably expect us to disclose it for that purpose.
- That purpose is related to the purpose specified by you at the time of the collection.
- echo may disclose personal Information to unrelated third parties to enable outsourcing of functions where that disclosure or use is for a related secondary purpose and has been notified to individuals or where such disclosure is within the individual's reasonable expectations.
- echo will take reasonable steps to ensure that its third parties include requirements for them to comply with the use and disclosure requirements of the Privacy Act.
- echo reasonably believes that the use is necessary to lessen or prevent a serious or imminent threat to an individual's life or health; covered under the 'Releasing Protected Information' under the Social Security Administration Act, Class Public Interest Certificate (No.1) 2017 (see https://www.legislation.gov.au for further information).
- echo has reason to suspect that unlawful activity has been, or is being engaged in, and uses the information as part of its investigation, or in reporting its concerns to the relevant authority.
- The use and disclosure is specifically authorised by law.
- The use and disclosure is reasonably necessary for the enforcement of the criminal law, a law imposing a pecuniary penalty, or for the protection of public revenue.

echo does not use or disclose your Personal Information for the purpose of direct marketing related to unrelated products or services. echo will not use personal information without taking reasonable steps to ensure that the information is accurate, complete and up to date.

The Australian Privacy Principles impose additional obligations on echo when collecting, using or disclosing sensitive information.

echo will not collect personal information revealing your racial or ethnical origin, political opinions, religious or philosophical beliefs, trade-union membership, or sexual activity or orientation unless:

- Your consent has been obtained.
- The collection is required or specifically authorised by law or a court/tribunal order.
- The collection is necessary to prevent or lessen a serious and imminent threat to the life or health of any individual, where the subject of the information is physically or legally incapable of giving consent.
- The collection is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of a legal claim.

Storage and Security

When echo are in the possession or control of a record that contains personal information echo shall ensure:

- That the record is protected, by such security measures as is reasonable in the circumstances to prevent against loss, against unauthorised access, use, modification or disclosure, and against other misuse.
- That if it is necessary for the record to be given to a person in connection with the provision of a service to echo, everything reasonable within the power of echo is done to prevent unauthorised use of disclosure of information contained in the record.

RPE005 – Privacy of Information Employees and Participants

Transferring Personal Information Overseas

echo does not send information overseas.

Anonymous Transactions

echo will allow you to transact anonymously wherever that is reasonable and practicable to so.

Access and Correction

You will be provided with the opportunity to access the personal information we hold on you and, where appropriate, you may be able to correct that information if you determine that it is incorrect. echo will allow any person on whom records are maintained to have access to those records unless legislation (e.g. the Freedom of Information Act) or Government contract requires or authorises the refusal of access. To obtain access to your personal information please make a request at your closest site. Before giving access to information, echo will require proof of identification along with your details of the request which will be recorded on your file.
